

StudentShapers Recruitment: Calling all undergraduate students with experience in Change Makers modules

Change Makers Online Platform

Bursary: £1,705 total (0.5 days/week for 22 term time weeks; and 2.5 days/week for three vacation weeks).

Who should apply:

Ideally, students with competency in content curation, research and development, UI / UX design and application testing, and experience in Imperial Horizons Change Makers modules. Having a growth mindset and experience in self-development is a necessity.

Campus/Location: Predominantly online, with face-to-face meetings in South Kensington.

Project details:

This is an opportunity to be involved in the design and rollout of a new cross-platform application with the twin objectives of facilitating effective action towards the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals and students' self-development. Currently, the Change Makers modules offered within the Imperial Horizons programme feature a range of tools, practices, frameworks and methodologies that can build the capacity of students to further sustainable development and their own skillset. We aim to facilitate wider access and more effective use of these tools for the student body at Imperial College by placing them on an interactive cross-platform app.

The project will involve three student partners and two staff members sharing insight and creative ideas on how to best develop the tools for this new format. It will run from 3rd October 2022 to 24th March 2023. There will be weekly meetings for the team.

As a student partner involved in this project, you will learn more about a range of Change Makers tools. The interactive platform will enable partners in their independent leadership of activities with other students outside the formal classroom space. Partners will therefore develop their capacity to engage with, motivate and lead others to participate in activities that promote sustainable development and also self-development.
