Project details:

The Lived Experience Project (LEX) consists of a mini docuseries which focusses on bringing Lived Experience of Social Exclusion into the undergraduate medical curriculum. The production of 17 short videos following two Experts by Experience was completed in the academic year 2021/2022 and has since been introduced into the Lifestyle Medicine and Prevention module. The LEX project was originally created as a student-staff collaborative initiative, and it is important to us that in this next stage of the process we continue to take a collaborative, co-production approach.

The next steps in the development of the LEX project include evaluation and wide-spread integration of the project into the MBBS curriculum. Student Shapers will be involved in both planning and actioning in this next phase.

Activities may include discussion and planning meetings, mapping exercises, organisation of focus groups, analysis of qualitative data, written and verbal presentations.

The successful candidates will have the opportunity to develop a wide range of skills including:

- communication
- partnership working
- data analysis
- influencing
- presenting

We value diversity on our team and do not discriminate on the basis of race, religion, colour, national origin, sex, gender, gender expression, sexual orientation, age, marital status, veteran status, or disability status. We will ensure that students with disabilities are provided reasonable accommodation to participate in the application process. Please contact us to request adjustment.
